McGlinchey Stafford proudly announces that Stewart Spielman has been selected for the 2014 Fellows Program of the Leadership Council on Legal Diversity (LCLD), a national organization made up of the legal profession's top general counsel and managing partners. Spielman is the fourth McGlinchey Stafford attorney to participate in this program.

"We are excited that our colleague, Stewart Spielman, will have the opportunity to participate in the outstanding LCLD Fellows program," said Rudy Aguilar, Managing Member of McGlinchey Stafford.

Spielman joins the largest Fellows class since the program was founded, a group of more than 170 attorneys from around the country. The firm's previous participants in the Fellows Program include Lauren Campisi, Andy Cao, and Kyle Ferachi.

"The LCLD is a remarkable organization and I am honored to be a part of the Fellows program this year," said Spielman.

Launched in 2011, the LCLD Fellows program is an ambitious, highly structured initiative designed to increase diversity at the leadership levels of the nation's law firms and corporate legal departments. Over the course of the year-long program, participants will be challenged to improve their professional brand, build relationships that enhance professional development, participate in corporate learning experiences, and sharpen stewardship and leadership skills.

"Our Fellows program is a unique learning experience designed to empower a new generation of lawyers," said Brad Smith, LCLD Chair and Executive Vice President and General Counsel of Microsoft Corporation. "These talented individuals have been singled out for leadership by their organizations, and represent a broad spectrum of backgrounds that are as diverse as the country they serve."
