

McGlinchey Stafford Awards Diversity Fellowship to First-Year Law Student

April 28, 2011

National law firm McGlinchey Stafford PLLC announced today that it has awarded Cory Struble the firm's 2011 Diversity Fellowship Award, a distinguished honor given to one first year law student each year.

The McGlinchey Stafford Diversity Fellowship Program represents the firm's active commitment to a diverse workplace and the inclusion and retention of talented professionals. This year the program received more than 35 applicants and the firm selected Mr. Struble because of his proven leadership skills and excellent academic credentials.

"Our firm is fortunate to have this unique diversity award and we are excited to welcome Cory Struble as this year's McGlinchey Stafford Diversity Fellow," said Eric Simonson.

About the McGlinchey Stafford Diversity Fellowship Program

Our Diversity Fellowship Program is a comprehensive scholarship and employment initiative. This program invests in the future success of an outstanding first-year law student from a diverse background.

The dynamic, multiple benefit program represents our firm's belief that varying backgrounds and experiences enhance our firm's culture and add value to the legal services we provide. An important component of the firm's recruiting and diversity programs, this initiative supports our long-term recruitment goals and diversity vision, while aligning with McGlinchey Stafford's wider commitment to promote diversity within the legal profession.

About the 2011 Diversity Fellowship Award

The award consists of:

Scholarship

A $5,000 scholarship to assist with the costs of books, tuition or other law school expenses, to be distributed the fall semester of the recipient's second year of law school.

Summer Associate Position

During the summer between the first and second year of law school, each recipient will receive a paid summer associate position. Award recipients will also be considered for a position in the summer following his/her second year of law school.

Mentoring

Formal and informal mentoring by McGlinchey attorneys, during and after our Summer Associate Program, is an ongoing career development component of the award.
