

Robert Im

ASSOCIATE

Robert Im's practice focuses on commercial litigation and consumer financial services litigation. His client base includes financial institutions such as national and state banks, consumer finance companies, mortgage loan servicers and issuers, and other providers of consumer financial services. Robert's primary focus is defending mortgage lenders and loan servicers in lender liability actions in state and federal courts.

He also handles matters involving fraud, wrongful foreclosure, negligence, and breach of contract. Robert assists clients with contested foreclosures, real estate and title issues, and claims of federal and state regulatory violations. He represents banks and financial institutions in disputes involving state and federal consumer protection, and lending laws, and has experience defending claims arising under the Truth in Lending Act (TILA), Fair Debt Collection Practices Act (FDCPA), and California's Rosenthal FDCPA.

Robert also has experience with employment litigation cases in state and federal court and arbitration, including matters involving discrimination, retaliation, harassment, and wrongful termination, involving violations of FEHA and ERISA.

Relevant Experience

- Defended mortgage loan servicer in action alleging fraud and seeking reformation of mortgage loan and successfully obtained summary judgment
- Obtained a six-figure attorneys' fee award following successful defense of clients in a quiet title action and entry of judgment in their favor
- Successfully obtained summary judgment for mortgage loan servicers in multiple actions alleging violations of state consumer protection laws and unfair competition laws
