A slew of cybersecurity incidents in 2017 will likely lead to increased data security and breach notification requirements this year. What's more, customers and lawmakers alike expect companies to have a firm grasp on cybersecurity and data privacy issues. As Elena Lovoy and Peter Cockrell explained in the Alabama Bankers Association, Inc's Board Briefs, even though Alabama doesn't have a data breach notification law, that doesn't mean companies in the state are out of the data security spotlight.
